GLOBAL MOBILITY PROGRAM AND PROCESS FAQS

GETTING STARTED

- Who is Altair Global?
  Altair is a full-service relocation management firm retained by LinkedIn to assist you with each step of your relocation. Altair has years of experience and a vast array of resources at its disposal. You will have a primary point of responsibility at Altair, your relocation consultant, who will provide service, answer questions, and address issues that may arise. Altair is your initial point of contact for all of your relocation questions related to your benefits or move.

- What happens once I accept the offer?
  Once the offer has been signed and the system has been updated to "offer accepted", Altair Global will contact you within two business days. Altair cannot contact you until they have received proper authorization from LinkedIn. Once your dedicated Altair Consultant reaches out to you, they will review your benefits with you and help you start coordinating your relocation services.

- How long are my relocation benefits available to me?
  Baseline benefits (i.e. temporary housing, flights, home search assistance etc.) must be used within 30 days from your LinkedIn start date in the new location. Flex Reimbursement Allowance benefits must be selected and utilized before the six-month anniversary of the start date in the destination location.

- Will paid time off be available for my move?
  LinkedIn will provide up to five days (paid time-off) to assist with relocation related activities. Work with your manager to arrange this time off and enter the days in Workday Time Off. New hires may use these days off, only following their LinkedIn start date. If you are transferring internally, you may use the days before or after your move (subject to Manager approval).

- Who do I contact if I have any concerns, questions or need help?
  You can contact your Altair Relocation Consultant, or you can contact LinkedIn Global Mobility at globalmobility@linkedin.com.

RELOCATION PROGRAM BENEFITS

- What is the difference between Baseline and Flex Reimbursement Allowance benefits?
  Baseline Benefits are services that LinkedIn will cover at your new location, should they be needed. Flex Reimbursement Allowance benefits are services you choose based on your personal preferences according to your eligible amount as noted in your offer letter/contract of appointment. "Flex" items can be located in the Flex Reimbursement Allowance Covered List.

- Can any relocation benefits be paid in cash?
  No. There are no cash allowances offered. Unused Baseline and Flex Reimbursement Allowance balances cannot be cashed out. The Flex Reimbursement Allowance amount is an "up to" limit.

- I would like to use my Flex Reimbursement Allowance on a service not listed, am I able to request this?
  Yes you may make a request, but you should speak to your Altair Relocation Consultant for more information and if not included on the Flex Reimbursement Allowance Covered List it will be subject to further approval by LinkedIn.

- Can I use all my Flex Reimbursement Allowance on one service only?
  Yes.

- Are the services I choose in the Flex Reimbursement Allowance benefit list taxable, and do I have to take this into account when planning my choices?
  Some benefits are taxable in certain jurisdictions, however LinkedIn will supplement these taxes, so they are not paid out of your Flex Reimbursement Allowance.

- Do I need to make all my choices before I relocate?
  No. You can make your selections as you see necessary. Note: All selections must be made before your six-month anniversary of your start date in your new location.

- Can I submit relocation expense reimbursements on LinkedIn's expense report?
  No. Expense reports are to be used for business expenses only. You must use a personal credit card or personal funds for reimbursable relocation expenses, and then submit for reimbursement through the Altair reimbursement system.

- Where should I submit for relocation expenses?
  Eligible expense reimbursements should be submitted through Altair. Your Relocation Consultant will provide additional instructions regarding the use of this site.

- How long should I expect it to take to receive reimbursement for relocation expenses?
  Once Altair received your reimbursement expense, payments are typically made within five business days if all documentation has been submitted.

TEMPORARY HOUSING

- What type of facility will be provided for temporary housing?
  LinkedIn will provide furnished corporate apartments in close proximity (if available) to your new office location. Altair will manage this process and will supply you (where possible) links to view apartments online. Due to limited availability of corporate housing in some locations this may not be possible. For stays shorter than 30 days or if temporary housing is not available, hotels will be offered as an option.

- Does LinkedIn reimburse meals during my relocation?
  No, meals will not be covered by LinkedIn once you have relocated, however these costs are reimbursable as part of your Flex Reimbursement Allowance when travelling en-route to your final destination or as part of a home-finding trip.

- How does the leasing and billing work for temporary accommodation?
  Altair will manage securing the apartment, signing the lease, and will submit invoices directly to LinkedIn for the number of days (as outlined in your Benefits Summary as provided with your LinkedIn Offer/Employee Contract) of temporary housing benefit. For hotel stays, Altair will direct bill if possible. Otherwise Altair will reimburse hotel stays with submission of receipts.

TRAVEL TO DESTINATION

- Can I drive to my destination location?
  LinkedIn does not encourage driving distances in excess of 650kms/400miles, however you are free to make this decision. LinkedIn will only reimburse mileage (based on the most current government rates for relocation transportation as indicated by each final destination location) up to the maximum cost of flight for you and applicable dependents. If the cost of mileage exceeds the cost of the flight, you may use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance to cover the remaining cost. Mileage must be submitted through Altair Global and will be paid out as a reimbursement.

- Can I book my own flights?
  No. All flights for the final move to your new location must be reserved through the LinkedIn travel organization. Altair will assist with the contact information and process to reserve your final flights.

- Can a family member/friend/nanny (who is not designated as a dependent as part of my relocation) fly with me to my new location?
  Yes, however they will not be covered under your Baseline benefits. You may claim these costs as part of your Flex Reimbursement Allowance benefit.

- I want to have a stopover on the way to the destination location. Is this permitted?
  Only direct flights (or stopovers due to flight path) will be covered under baseline benefits. If you take an indirect flight, LinkedIn covers cost of flight up to the maximum of the direct route. You may use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance to cover any remaining costs.

- Will LinkedIn cover baggage?
  Yes. The costs of 1 (one) checked bag per family member could be covered for the trip to your destination. If you have additional baggage, you can use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance.

- Can I upgrade my flight?
  You may use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance for any upgrade fees beyond the flight costs covered under your Baseline benefits.

PRE-DEPARTURE

- If I need help with deregistering in my country and/or closing down utilities etc., who can assist me?
  Any requirements for departure, such as deregistration, lease cancellation, closing out of utilities, tax issues, etc. are the responsibility of the employee/new hire. Internal transfers may seek assistance from their departure country Human Resources. You may also use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance to cover a service as supplied by Altair.

- I have RSU's and other investments. How do I find out how these will be affected with my relocation?
  For any questions regarding stock, please speak to Stock Administration at LIstock@microsoft.com. For International Relocations, LinkedIn will initiate a tax briefing session with PwC, LinkedIn's preferred provider for tax support. Refer to your offer letter/contract of employment Benefits Summary, to see if you are eligible for a briefing and preparation of taxes in both your departure and destination locations.

- How will I receive my final bonus or other payments after leaving the country?
  You should maintain your bank account in your departure country until all regular payroll payments have been made to you. Bonus payments will be paid to you in the country you are working in at time of payment. Please consult with your PwC Tax professional to find out how this might affect your taxes when you file your annual return.

- Who do I speak to about my medical, dental and vision benefits?
  Please send an email to Talent Services: talentservices@linkedin.com

- Who will help with local registrations for tax ID's, opening a bank account, or other local services?
  For International Relocations and as part of baseline benefits, Altair will connect you with services to provide information on local compliance registrations and how to get set up with a bank account. Other destination services may be available and varies by location. Your Altair Consultant can advise you.

- Who will assist me with finding a permanent residence?
  As part of your Baseline benefits, LinkedIn provides access to Home Search Assistance through one of LinkedIn's preferred Destination Service Providers. Should you need additional assistance beyond what is provided in the Baseline, you may use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance to extend services.

PAYROLL

- When do I get paid in the new country location?
  Pay dates are dependent on the country in which you will be working. For more information on pay dates and other payroll related questions, email talentservices@linkedin.com

- What is considered taxable income to me at the new location?
  Your income in the new location will be taxable as per the local and country tax rates as established by local law. Relocation benefits may also be taxable based on country tax regulations. Work with your tax consultant to establish which of the relocation benefits are taxable in your country location.

- Is LinkedIn going to gross up all relocation benefits?
  LinkedIn will gross up relocation benefits based on the local tax regulations for relocation.

- Does LinkedIn provide tax support for both departure and destination locations?
  It is provided for International relocation only. As part of the tax services benefit offered in the relocation program, tax consultations will cover both departure and destination locations.
  For Domestic relocation, you may use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance to reimburse tax services.

WORK AUTHORIZATION/VISA APPLICATION

- I don't have a passport. Will LinkedIn pay for a service and the fees to expedite the application for a passport?
  You may use your Flex Reimbursement Allowance for reimbursement for these expenses.

- Is it required for my partner and I to be married to obtain a visa for them to join me on my relocation to another country?
  Note that the laws in certain countries may prevent LinkedIn from obtaining a visa for a same-sex spouse or domestic partner to relocate with you. Please check in with HR Immigration at HRimmigration@linkedin.com or by submitting a ticket through go/helpin.

- Will LinkedIn support (pay for) my partner/spouse work authorization/visa?
  LinkedIn will cover the costs for a spouse visa, this may or may not include work authorization. You should work with the Immigration Partners to understand what type of visa/work authorization will be available for your spouse/partner.
